BAY STATE POLL – MARCH 2006 STUDY REPORT

The Bay State Poll is a quarterly survey of Massachusetts' residents, conducted by the Center for Public Opinion Research at Merrimack College. The data presented in this report are based on the survey responses of eight hundred eighty one (881) randomly selected state residents over the age of eighteen who were interviewed by telephone February 25-March 8, 2006. Each time the Bay State Poll is conducted, respondents are asked certain core questions regarding national and state political leaders, the most important problems facing the nation and the state, and their perceptions of the economy. In addition, each release of the Bay State Poll asks certain topical questions. For this particular survey, the topical questions concerned: gay marriage, the upcoming gubernatorial election and confidence in social institutions. The survey's margin of error is +/- 3.5%, although for sub-samples the margin for error is higher as noted. The data presented have been weighted to census estimates on education, age, and gender. The raw data, survey questionnaire, and additional information on the study and its methodology can be found at www.merrimack.edu/polling. This report contains the following information:

- I. Study Highlights
- II. Demographic Characteristics of the Sample
- III. Frequencies
  - a. Core Questions
  - b. Topical Questions
- IV. Cross tabulations (by Demographics)
  - a. Core Questions
  - b. Topical Questions
- V. Trends on Approval and Economy

Frequencies are presented as column percentage for the values on each variable. Cross tabulations by demographics are presented as row percentages for each category of the each of the demographic variables included in the study. Percentages will not always sum to 100% due to rounding error.

I. Study Highlights

- In a potential three way match-up of gubernatorial candidates, Bay State Poll respondents favored Democrat Tom Reilly (39.2%) over Republican Kerry Healey (21.2%) and Independent Christy Mihos (14.6%), with 25% undecided. In the other potential three way match-up, Democrat Deval Patrick garnered 32% support leading Healey (28%) and Mihos (13%), with 27% undecided.
- Registered Democrats and Independents likely to vote in the Democratic primary this fall preferred Reilly over Patrick 37.5% to 21.8% with 40.7% still undecided.
- 58% of Massachusetts residents favor allowing gays and lesbians to marry legally, with 32% opposed and 9% undecided.
- Healthcare and health insurance were named as the top priority of nearly a quarter (23.1%) of the state's residents. Education was named by the second highest percentage of respondents (15.2%) with jobs and the economy third (12.9%).
